

VAA

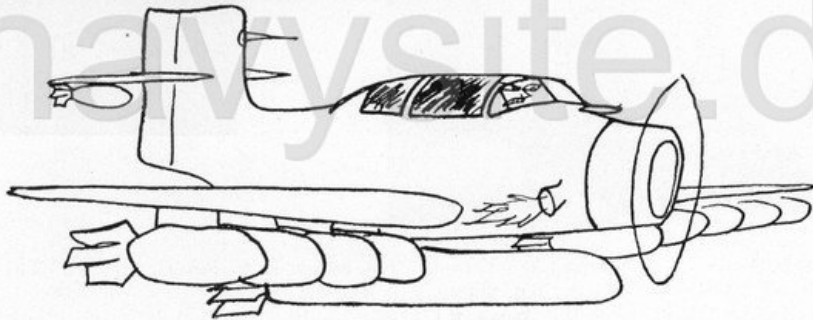

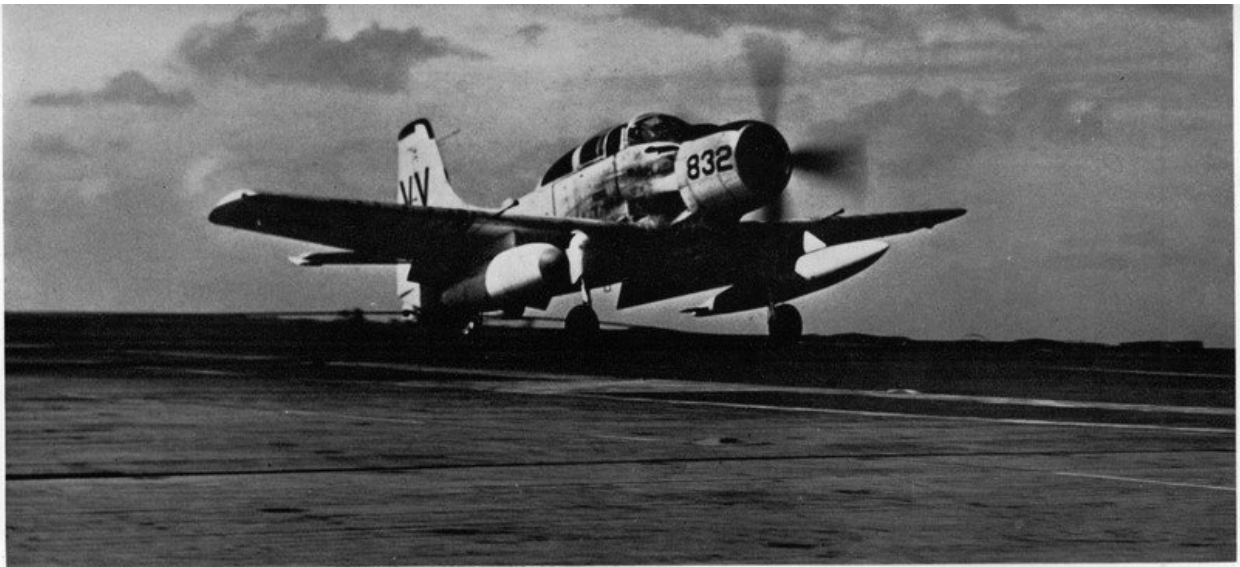

Detachment Mike of All Weather Attack Squadron 35, headed by LCDR Ben Jones, exemplifies versatility of both pilots and aircraft. The AD-5N Skyraider is an all-weather aircraft capable of Special Weapons delivery. It is used in a variety of night and day operations including anti-submarine warfare.

Although the AD is relatively slow when compared to its sister jet aircraft, it continues to prove its worth. This type plane carries a huge bomb load for its size; can fly low beneath enemy radar nets; and is mechanically a very reliable aircraft. The capabilities of VAAW-35 Det M's pilots and planes prove that the propeller-driven fighting airplane is not yet a thing of the past.
