

ADMINISTRATION

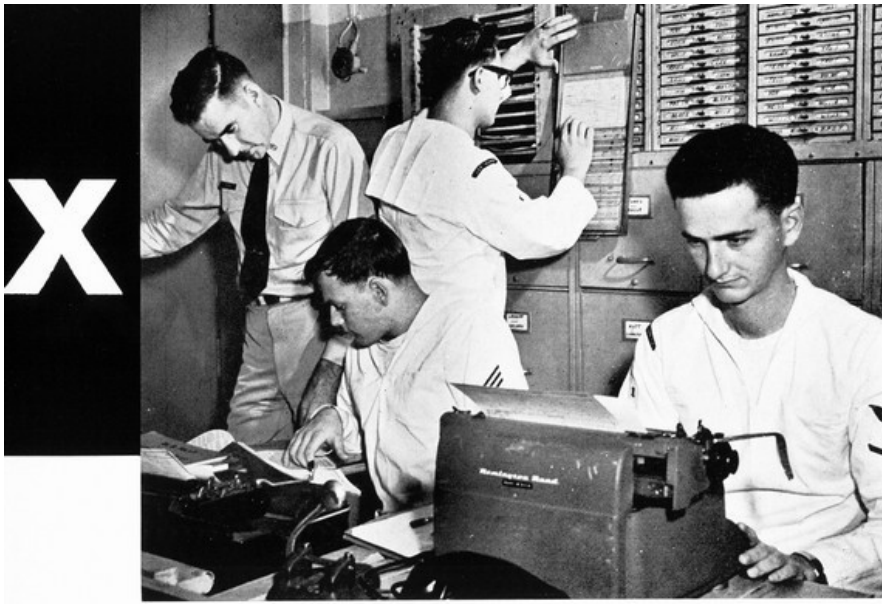

X Division

Where the USS TICONDEROGA is concerned, X—the perennial unknown quantity—means “Executive.” This is the department within a division (and vice-versa) that insures the policies of the Executive Officer are carried out. It’s a clerical division to be sure, but within this paper, ink and filing cabinet empire lies the responsibility that stretches all the way from caring for the crew’s religious needs to the all-important Master-at-Arms force. Included in the realm of X Division one can find the Administrative Office; Personnel Office, one of the best known locations on board; the Legal Office; the Post Office; I & E; Chaplain’s Office, which also includes the Crew’s Lounge and Library; PIO; the Hobby Shop; the Print Shop and the Captain’s Office which also doubles as the Officers’ Personnel Office. Perhaps this division is an “unknown quantity” due to its many varying facets and responsibilities, but its worth is well known by the men who are served by it.

Captain's Office: Myhan, Chief Coy, Spaulding and Dillashaw
