LT P. J. Gatto
Officer-in-Charge

The mission of Light Photographic Squadron SIXTY-THREE is to provide aerial photography and aerial photographic intelligence in support of fleet operations. Light Photographic Squadron SIXTY-THREE Detachment BRAVO is assigned to the USS TICONDEROGA to carry out this most important tactical mission.

Detachment BRAVO consists of five officers and thirty-two men. It is but one of the Detachments placed onboard all of the attack carriers on the West Coast by Light Photographic Squadron SIXTY-THREE. Detachment BRAVO, with LT P.J. Gatto as Officer-in-Charge, has responsibility of completing any photographic mission that may be assigned to it. The detachment's tools are three RF-8A aircraft, the photo version of the "Crusader".

This versatile supersonic aircraft provides photographic capabilities from fifty feet to fifty thousand feet and also allows simultaneous stereo coverage from horizon to horizon. Couple a well trained detachment with these aerial reconnaissance aircraft and you have the most rapid and accurate source of tactical intelligence information known today.
